CODE OF ETHICS

The Concrete Pumping Association of Australia Inc commenced on the 26th March 1986 and is incorporated under the NSW Associations Incorporation Act 1984. All members are bound by the Associations rules, which are registered under that Act. (A copy can be obtained from the Chief Executive Officer).

A major aim of the Association is the recognition of the Concrete Pumping Industry as an efficient, reliable and safe industry. As an essential step towards achieving that aim, the Association has adopted a “Code of Ethics” that is binding on the members.

1. Members will assist in furthering the objectives, interests and causes of the Association and will assist wherever possible in the development by co-operating with other members, customers, Government agencies, the public and industry in general.
2. Members must comply with all Government regulations with respect to the operation of their equipment and the engagement of employees, as may be in force or may be enacted with regard to the Concrete Pumping Industry.
3. A members business must be conducted so as to reflect favourably on the Association and its members.
4. Members shall ensure that the pump operating employees are trained to acceptable standards of competency and to operate the company’s equipment in a safe and efficient manner.
5. Members will be safety conscious and always strive for a safer working environment.
6. Members will ensure adequate operating standards by maintaining company equipment in good working order and to present equipment in clean and tidy manner.
7. Members will adequately insure pumping equipment and carry public liability insurance in accordance with the recommended practice.
8. Members will ensure that regular maintenance and inspection checks are recorded in the logbooks and are made available upon request by any authorised inspection authority.
9. Members must treat all information from within the Association as strictly confidential and will not release information to any other party without the written approval of the executive committee.
